EMERGENCY AID

VALUABLE PAPER PREPARED BY DR. COSTIGAN AND READ TO LA CANADA WOMEN

A valuable paper on "First Aid to the Injured" was read on Friday afternoon before the members of the La Canada Parent-Teachers' association at its first meeting of the new school year. It was written by Dr. Costigan, surgeon of the United States navy, especially for the occasion. Dr. Costigan had expected to be present and address the mothers in person, but finding that impossible at the last minute, he sketched out the following paper, which was read by Mrs. Max Green, a member of the program committee of the association:

"First aid in injury or disease implies the immediate relief of the symptoms and suffering of an individual, either permanently or temporarily, awaiting the arrival of a physician or surgeon, or transportation to some other place.

"One of the most common conditions requiring immediate attention is that commonly known as "fainting," due generally to some shock to the general nervous system as the sudden receipt of bad news, severe pain, the sight of an accident or blood, a close room, a weak heart, etc. There is a temporary partial cessation of the functions of circulation and respiration, accompanied by pallor of the face and complete muscular relaxation. There is a decrease in the amount of oxygenated blood in the brain and unless caught in time the patient falls and may meet the second injury.

"He should at once be placed in a recumbent position, the head very low, the clothing about the throat, chest and waist loosened and plenty of fresh air supplied. Sprinkle cold water on the face and chest and give inhalations of ordinary ammonia water by passing the bottle from side to side beneath the nose, or the cork or a handkerchief wet in the same way. Use the ordinary smelling salts. Upon the return of consciousness give a glass of cold water or a stimulant.

"A sudden pallor of the face, accompanied by beads of perspiration about the lips and forehead, is indicative of an approaching faint, which can be averted by lowering the head, giving a glass of fresh water and plenty of fresh air.

Convulsions

Convulsions, involuntary spasms of the muscles, occur most frequently in children, and are most often due to teething, intestinal disturbance or the onset of more serious trouble. If from teething, a small quantity of brandy or wine in sweetened water will often check them. In intestinal trouble, empty the bowel by an enema. Immerse the body in warm water, with cold to the head. Bromide of potassium is a far better sedative drug for children than any preparation containing opium as paregoric.

"In the case of adults, prevent him doing any bodily harm by striking the arms or legs or biting the tonque. To prevent the latter place a cork on the end of a string between the teeth or use in the same way the folded corner of a towel.

Poisoning

"In all cases of poisoning except that caused by the violent acids, the first thing is to empty the stomach. In this form, however, the acid has already done so much harm to the tissues that vomiting becomes dangerous and the proper procedure is to neutralize the poison or render it inert. These alkalies, to be given in solution, in water, are whiting, chalk, wall plaster, carbonate of sodium (washing soda), or soap and water in large quantity. Then give milk and egg, olive oil or thick gruel, keep the patient warm, stimulate the heart and employ artificial respiration. The heart may be stimulated by the application of a mustard plaster over that organ—but do not blister the skin. Where emetics are used, those that are handy are a tablespoon of mustard in a glass of warm water, two tablespoons of salt in a glass of tepid water, ipecac, 30 grains in half a glass of water.

"A common form of poisoning is from carbolic acid and bichloride of mercury. In the former case give at once alcohol diluted with water or whiskey or brandy, the alcohol in each case to neutralize the poison and then an emetic. If the alcohol cannot be obtained give at once Epsom salts or Rochelle salts, then demulcent drinks, as milk and egg. Combat failing heart and respiration as mentioned above.

"In bichloride poisoning give at once the white of eggs which form with the mercury an inert compound which must be gotten rid of by an

IN HIS NEW FIELD

THE REV. B. D. SNUDDEN SEES GREAT PROMISE FOR M. E. CHURCH IN GLENDALE

That there is an excellent field for church work in Glendale is the opinion of the Rev. B. D. Snudden, the newly appointed pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Glendale. Mr. Snudden who preached his first sermon on Sunday to a large and interested congregation is much pleased with the prospects in this city. "I believe," said Mr. Snudden, to a representative of the Glendale Evening News, "that there is a splendid opportunity to build up a large and strong church here providing the congregation can see its way to secure a new up-to-date building.

Rev. B. D. Snudden

"With a building adapted to the various needs of a modern church, work will be possible that can only be inadequately attempted under the present conditions. The modern congregation is able to undertake graded work in the Sunday school and other classes because it has facilities of which the old style churches never dreamed. I believe that the congregation feels that it must meet this situation.

"I believe in building up a church from the bottom. The future is before us and we must consider it. The young people of a church are its future congregation. The prospects in Glendale look excellent. There seems to be a fine field here for Christian work and with the intelligent and enthusiastic support the members of the First M. E. church have always given their pastor, I anticipate a very profitable ministry here."

Mr. Snudden, though born in Canada, in the city of Toronto, has lived long enough in Southern California and the United States to be a thorough American. He came to California with his parents in 1893 and studied at the University of Southern California taking the degree of Master of Arts. His first charge was Ocean Park where he remained four years. After that ministry he moved to New York state and entered on a ministry at Troy, where he remained three years. During that time he took a partial course in law in a Chicago correspondence school. Afterwards he came back to California taking a church in Bakersfield.

Glendora was his next charge. There he remained three years during which time he succeeded in building a new church at a cost of $30,000. This is probably the only reinforced concrete church in Southern California. From Glendora he has come to Glendale where his activities are about to begin.

THE CAPTAIN OF PLYMOUTH

One of the happiest days in the history of General Richard Gridley Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was that held at the home of the regent, Mrs. Mary H. Gridley-Braly, 205 N. Brand Blvd., Wednesday afternoon. The occasion was the first meeting of the chapter for the present year. Each member of the chapter had invited a guest so the spacious parlors of the Braly home were filled with a goodly company of ladies. Mrs. Braly had provided a real treat for the ladies in the form of a Colonial play given by Mrs. Wayland Brown who enjoys a wide reputation for excellence in dramatic work both as a teacher and an actress of considerable experience. Mrs. Brown read in a truly delightful manner, "The Captain of Plymouth" a charming story of Colonial times.

Mr. Braly was called upon and spoke briefly to the ladies telling them many things about our government that we all should know. A social hour was very much enjoyed by this very congenial company, during which the hostess served very dainty refreshments.

ON PRESIDENT'S DAY

OPENING MEETING OF TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

The Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale will have a most successful year, if one may judge the caliber of work to be done by the opening meeting which was held yesterday at Masonic Temple. President's Day was certainly a great success. Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, the modest and efficient new president, has already established herself in the hearts of her club members, who yesterday expressed their love for her through the medium of two beautiful bouquets of flowers. The clubroom was profusely decorated with cosmos of every hue. The Ketterling Quartette, an organization of splendid Glendale talent, consisting of Mr. George Ketterling, pianist, Miss Frances E. Payne, violinist; Miss Genevieve E. Dorn, flutist, and Mr. Morris E. Caruthers, cellist, furnished pleasing music throughout the afternoon. Following are the selections rendered:

March, Panama Exposition.....Pierson
Selection from Martha.....Flotow
Concert Waltz, Inamorata.....
.....Marcheta
Gondolieri .....Nevin
Elegy .....Massenet
Romance .....Rubinstein
Selection from Burgomeister.....
.....Luder
Waltz, Krist .....Sidelens
Selection from Sweetheart.....
.....Herbert
Under the Double Eagle.....Wagner

Madame Marguerite M. Sigourd's beautiful contralto voice was much enjoyed in the arias, La Gioconda, La Paloma, and Somewhere Voices Are Calling. Yesterday is the first time Madame Sigourd has sung in English. She is now a pupil of Miss Jessie Weimar, the operatic coach. Mr. Hector Alliott spoke of Madame Sigourd as a promising artist. Her work before the club was highly appreciated. Madame Sigourd was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of cosmos. She was ably accompanied by Miss Marguerite Wilcox.

The feature of the afternoon, the president's address given by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, was brim full of helpful suggestions, and inspiration for the work of the coming year.

A number of important announcements were made during the business session. One which created much interest was that made by Mrs. E. W. Kinney and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, who both urged all the Glendale ladies and their friends to cast their vote without fail for the Tuesday Afternoon Club in the piano contest being conducted by the Southern California Music Co. The contest closes Friday of this week, and the club ladies were urged to make every day count. Mrs. Kinney announced the music section meetings Friday, Oct. 15, at her home, 1223 Seventh street. Announcement of meetings were made as follows:

Mrs. C. E. Harlan: "The Literary Section will meet next Tuesday at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. J. H. Daugherty, 505 S. Central. Everyone invited. No dues."

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones: "The section of Political Science and Civics is a new one in the club. We shall meet the fourth Thursday afternoon of each month at the home of Mrs. A. L. Weaver, assistant curator of the section, 225 South Kenwood street. At the close of the study hour, which will deal with national questions from an historical standpoint, adjournment will be made to the Intermediate School, where at a meeting open to the public, civic matters and municipal questions will be the subjects of prominent speakers.

The tentative outline of the course will be found in the year book, page 21. All who are interested in this section please call Mrs. Oliver Clark, secretary of the section. No dues are required.

Mrs. P. S. McNutt announced the meetings of the Parliamentary section on the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. M. E. Evans announced the meeting of the Shakespeare section Monday, October 18, at her home, 113 Orange street.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett read and emphasized an invitation extended by the Parent Teacher Federation to hear Professor Jerome Hall Raymond, Ph. D., Saturday, October 16, at the Union High School. Dr. Raymond's subject is: "Rome and the Renaissance of Self Government in Italy." Mrs. Bartlett also emphasized the announcement of Glendale Day at the Mission Play, October 28, being the day set aside for that purpose by the Chamber of Commerce. Since after the first of the year the Mission Play is to leave California for a period of years abroad, everyone who has not yet seen the Mission Play is urged to reserve the date of October 28 for that purpose.

At the close of the afternoon's program delicious tea and cake were served during the social hour by the October sub chairman of hospitality, Mrs. Albert D. Pearce, and her able assistants.

WHERE NATURE SMILES

BURBANK HAS ALL THE ELEMENTS OF A PROSPEROUS COMMUNITY WITH A FUTURE

Few centers of population in California have more favorable features than Burbank. The very name of the city linked with all that is original and progressive in the growing and developing of plants, vegetables and trees. The whole district lives up to the reputation earned for it by the genius after whom it was named.

Those who look into the future can foresee a time when the beautiful hill slope on which Burbank stands will be clothed in civic beauty. Already substantial houses and noble residences are beginning to appear as the city stretches farther and farther up the hill. Standing at a highly convenient elevation which raises it out of the fogs of lower regions, Burbank presents a healthful and convenient residence for those who seek a fair elevation and a dry climate.

That these qualities are appreciated may be seen in the fact that every season sees a farther increase in the number of Burbank's population and in the indications that future settlement is coming its way. The recent sale of the Stough estate is very likely to result in the placing on the market of a new Burbank subdivision. With modern methods of advertising and selling such property it will not be long before a flourishing community will settle on the section opened up. This will naturally give an immense impetus to other sections of Burbank and will enhance property values all over.

Anyone going into Burbank for the first time is struck at once by the general air of prosperity and thrift that is manifest in the stores and streets. Everything, even in this era of hard competition and dullness in trade, indicates that the storekeepers are running their businesses in first-class style. Indeed it would be difficult to find any place in these days where there have not been failures. That Burbank should manage to hold its own, if nothing more, is a great victory, and says much for the business acumen and knowledge of its merchants.

Here is a city where evidence of good management and prosperity may be seen on every side. Here is a city where men have the reputation of paying their bills. Here nature smiles on man's efforts to reap a harvest from the soil. The soil is rich; the climate kindly and the crops of all kinds bountiful. It would be difficult to find any crop, any kind of vegetable, any fruit that could not be grown to perfection in Burbank.

Potatoes take kindly to this soil and produce abundantly; so do all root crops. No finer beets or onions could be obtained anywhere. Apricots and peaches and plums show the marvelous nourishing qualities of the soil bearing their fruit in clusters like the grapes of Eschol. This is the ideal spot for the small rancher. He is close to the markets of Los Angeles and neighboring places and everywhere from his own center run the admirable roads of Southern California.

Of Burbank it may well be said that "every prospect pleases." Man, too, is seen here at his best. He is in the midst of a glorious climate and Nature brings forth for him abundantly. Before him stretches away west, east and south the rich fields and noble landscape of Los Angeles county; behind him stand the eternal hills keeping watch and ward alway about the city. This is a place highly favored by the Creator of all things. When the clouds of depression now hanging over the country pass away and the sun of prosperity shines forth Burbank will be ready to take advantage of the good times and will advance all the more because it is now learning the true value of conservation of energy along with its application in the right direction.

WHEN THE HEATHEN TAKES A HAND

Western peace advocates have been having it so long their own way that they have come to regard the peace propaganda as their particular game and have not hitherto been able to conceive of outsiders taking a hand in it. There was therefore more or less astonishment among the members of the International Peace Congress when the "heathen Chinee" and the barbarous Jap" and some "lesser breeds without the law" broke into the charmed circle and took a hand in the game.

It would be something if the western "statesman" who has only a vague idea of where the majority of foreign cities and ports lie and would be puzzled to point them out on the map could fathom the depths and gauge the width of the education of such a Chinese as Dr. Ng Poon Chew, who had some very pertinent things to say about Christian treatment of China. The ignorant mind, however, always complacently sails over depths it cannot comprehend till "billows rage and gales blow hard and whelm him o'er." It would be too much to expect the average politician to comprehend all that is contained in the semi-sarcastic speech of Dr. Ng Poon Chew or the grave forecast of Count Okuma.

Count Okuma is more of a statesman than Dr. Ng Poon Chew; he is more of a believer in the maxim that language was given the man for the purpose of concealing his real thoughts. The Chinese statesman, on the other hand, is straightforward, outspoken and not by any means sparing of western sentitiveness. It was rather too much of a bombshell, to cast into a peace congress the threat of war, and the declaration that peace is a mere fantasy of the brain. That, however, is what Dr. Chew said and his audience was too much astonished to contradict him.

War according to Dr. Chew is going to keep right on in the world as long as there are two standards of morality and two codes of law—one governing nations, the other governing individuals As long as the Christian comes with his bible in hand to the heathen and tells him how much superior his religion is to what he (the heathen) has learned and at the same time his countrymen exhibit a depravity, drunkenness and dishonesty such as the "heathen" has never exhibited, there can be no hope of world peace.

According to Dr. Chew the Chinese and the Japanese were interfering with no other nation when western "civilization" forced itself on them. The western nations he said had parceled out China and destroyed her ideals of peace. Their greed had now reacted on themselves and they were quarreling over the right to spoil. Inevitably that had to be the outcome. China had practised peace. She had disarmed herself. Though she had known the secret of gunpowder centuries before Friar Bacon spoke of it she had never made use of it except for innocent fireworks. She had ceased to learn the art of war and the consequence was that the western nations came in and took her ports and despoiled her.

Those same nations, according to Dr. Crew, would just as soon come into the United States and despoil her were she as helpless as China. He accused Japan of being built on German "kultur" and German militarism and of being the disturber of the East. It was quite significant to hear this well-bred, intelligent, cultured Chinese telling the people of the West that China was now alive to the neccessity of preparing defense against aggression. The next step will probably be aggression for aggression. Aggression always breeds aggression. Germany, Great Britain, Japan, and all the other countries that rushed to the spoil of China are likely to experience in full the meaning of the lessons they have been teaching.

It is certain that instead of seeking the followers of the Prince of Peace for whom there was recently a great demand in China that nation is now likely to be a profitable customer for the 105-millimetre field gun, for aeroplanes, dirigibles, machine guns and submarines. The outlook is not reassuring. With four hundred and fifty millions of inhabitants China could easily outclass Europe in the number of fighting men she could put in the line. The Chinese are first-class fighting men when trained, and it does not take so very long to train them. With all the lessons the Chinese are getting these days in the conduct of a campaign they might easily conquer the world if once prepared. How would the east regard that contingency?

CRISIS IN THE BALKANS

That the Balkan States have upset all the calculations of the allies is certain. The situation in Bulgaria, Roumania and Greece is another demonstration of the advantage of having friends at court. The kaiser, when the crowns of these three nations were going a-begging, planned to get on their thrones men bound to him by sundry ties of family and gratitude. The consequence has been that at the crisis of the war he has on the three thrones—Greece, Roumania and Bulgaria—men who are his own relatives and who against the sentiment of the people are forcing their nations into the war on the side of Germany.

Just how far this will profit the kaiser and the emperor of Austria in the end is doubtful. The upshot of the whole affair may be rebellion in those turbulent countries and a shaking down of the petty kings from their thrones. That would be the best thing that could happen. Could the Near East, as it is called, be rid of the semblances and shadows of kings that now ride roughshod over the nations the people would breathe easier and be happier as well as more prosperous. Such a consummation as the dismissal of the three kings of Servia, Roumania and Greece and, as would likely follow, the ousting of King Peter of Servia, would go far to help on the federation of the world.

Only in some such way can the devastating wars made by kings be stopped. Only by the complete sweeping away of the last shred of the blood-and-iron monarchies of Europe can the people ever come into their own inheritance.

Meanwhile the launching of a new "drive" through Servia has not frightened that brave people, who, at a critical period in the war, defeated Austria with great slaughter, in the very fields where the fighting is now going on. In the Servians the Central powers have to face very different material from the Russians. There is every indication also that when they come to join issue with the main forces of the Servians they will find them strengthened and reinforced by the forces of Russia, France and Britain.

It is very desirable now for Germany to get through Servia to the aid of the Turks. The capture of Constantinople is now the point on which the whole fate of the nations depends and as the Germans have failed in their campaigns in Russia and the West they must try something new or lose forever their chance of dominating Europe. It is going to be a sanguinary fight whatever may be the outcome. Before it is finished Greece and Roumania may be forced in also.

EUROPEAN WAR HAS FILLED NEW YORK AND OTHER CENTERS WITH CRIMINALS

The war has made New York the biggest "international crook center" in the world authorities declare. Every city in the country likewise has its increased quota of crooks of all kinds driven from Europe.

It seems to be the women who are suffering most from the straight burglaries. To date this year the toll of the Snout-and-Jowl and Crafty-Debonair brigades in Gotham alone totals nearly half a million dollars in gems and cash. Practically all the big robberies have been from wealthy women's homes.

While Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols sat in the drawing room of her Brooklyn residence a thief entered frightened Mrs. Nichols so she died, then walked out with $16,500 worth of jewelry.

Inspector Joseph A. Faurot, chief of the New York detective bureau, has issued a length ywarning to the women of the country on how to protect their homes from burglars, hundreds of whom have come from Europe with their more subtle brothers and sisters who travel first cabin.

There are three months left for the crooks to make a 1915 international record here and they promise to do it.

Driven from their lucrative and accustomed haunts at Monte Carlo, London, Paris, Berlin and like famed continental resorts, the crooks have swooped down and settled upon New York as the locust plague once swept the Kansas prairies.

They're a clever crew, for the most part, barring the international strong arm man and second story worker, who is just a prosperous low brow. It's the educated, crafty, shrewd men and women crooks—white collar scoundrels, who are driving the New York detectives plumb distracted.

Since January fifteen "big jobs" of $3000 or over have been successfully put over by what is believed to be an organized band of clever criminals aided, maybe, by servants in wealthy households.

Proceeds from the fifteen hauls total nearly $350,000, and there have been hundreds of robberies ranging from $100 to $2500.

Some of the heaviest losers are Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich, whose summer house at Southampton, L. I., was robbed of $70,000 in gems; Mrs. James McMillan, whose summer place at Manchester-by-the-Sea was robbed of jewels valued at $75,000; Mrs. E. Clifton Potter, from whose summer place at East Hampton, L. I., thieves obtained $50,000 in gems; Mrs. Barbara Wright, Brooklyn, $25,000.

Rewards totaling almost $50,000 are still in force on some of the larger robberies.

In an effort to hold on to his savings which had been accumulated through careful saving the past few months, Mr. Adams put up a stiff fight and was knocked into insensibility by the highwaymen. He came to slowly and was crawling his way home when assisted to his house by neighbors. When his wife heard what had happened she started out with two of her children to find the robbers, with the intention of securing from them their spoils by a tale of how sorely the family needed the amount stolen. City marshal Greenwood was finally notified by one of Mr. Adams' children and accompanied by Deputy Sheriffs Catlin, Anderson, Conley, Copper and constable Adams formed a posse, but up to date the highwaymen have not been found.

Go to the company's store, 316 Brand boulevard, and register your vote for the volunteer firemen of Glendale. No association deserves it more. Your vote will be a testimonial to the invaluable services the fire boys have rendered the city. It will give them courage and strength for future work. Nothing serves to hearten more a man who is doing his duty than the appreciation of the public Don't wait until it is too late. Here is a chance to show what you think of the department. Go to the Southern California Music company's store and vote before the time is past.

Contest closes Friday, Oct. 15, at 9 p. m.

There is no entrance fee. The votes are free. It costs nothing to register except the short time you spend in the store writing your name. Call the fire department, Glendale 31, for further information. Do not permit this opportunity to pass. It will be an easy and graceful method of testifying to the esteem in which you hold the fire department and your appreciation of their services. There are other organizations in the contest, but not one that is rendering the public service given by the volunteer fire department. Give the fire boys your vote. Help to infuse a little brightness into the long watches they put in at the firehouse. Winter is coming on. Let them have music to cheer them and give them—not courage for their duty, they have that—but the knowledge that those they protect are grateful. 41t6

W. C. T. U. MEETING

Considerable importance attaches to the next meeting of the local W. C. T. U. which will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Frank, 1464 W. Second street, Friday afternoon, Oct. 16. There will be an interesting program including the usual Bible reading by Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan at 2.30. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Durham who was to speak on "Temperance and Labor," that subject will not be taken up till a later meeting and instead of it will be substituted a discussion on the amendments, to be voted on Oct. 26. Mrs. Greenwalt will give the study on government. Plans will be laid for the coming campaign and there will be other features of interest. All members are urged to be present. Visitors are welcome.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

(Contributed)

Those who attended the services at the Christian church last evening had a great spiritual uplift. Mrs. G. W. Miller is proving her ability as a great song leader. Evangelist B. C. Hagerman is keeping up his record of preaching each night a better sermon than the previous one. How one could listen to one of those earnest messages and not have his heart stirred to better things would be hard to understand. If the members and friends of the Christian church are not greatly blessed of God in this campaign it will not be the fault of our evangelists.

Our special musical numbers are a most helpful contribution to each service. The deepening interest is most gratifying and we feel that we are in the beginning of a great campaign.

UNIVERSITY TO GROW DATES

On the University of California's experimental farm in the Imperial valley, 3500 date palm seedlings have been grown, and over 1000 distributed throughout the state. These seedlings represent ten different varieties. University experts believe the date palm will become one of the main fruit crops of the Imperial valley.

LA CANADA

Mr. Quehl has had the roof of his house shingled and is having other improvements made.

Mr. L. Thomson and Mr. E. Walk spent Sunday visiting with the Haines'.

Mrs. Emelie Volker returned to her home in La Crescenta after an extended visit in Vancouver, B. C.

Sunday school rally at the Presbyterian church will undoubtedly cause a stir among La Crescenta people next Sunday morning.

W. C. White, the progressive storekeeper in the Oakdale community, has been busy the past few days painting his store building.

E. D. Severance and T. D. Hutchison of Los Angeles have been in La Crescenta the past week surveying Mrs. Helen Eaton's place, preparatory to subdividing.

The R. C. Walton family of Los Angeles moved into their new home south of La Crescenta the first part of this week. This new residence is planned to be one of the show places of the valley.

Preliminary work has been begun on the culverts, which cross Michigan avenue, preparatory to constructing the new State Highway. Surveyors have been busy for the past few weeks.

The early risers in La Crescenta Wednesday morning had the pleasure of viewing one of the most spectacular fogs in years. It was beautiful, too, from the fact that it entirely missed La Crescenta, yet allowed the residents to see it rise and swell against the Verdugo hills.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leenhouts gave a box party at the Morosco theater last week to a group of intimate friends. After the theater a dinner followed at the Bristol. Among those who enjoyed this happy event were: Mr. and Mrs. Appel and daughter Eugenia, Mrs. Curtis, Mr. Travis, Mr. Joseph Hartley and the host and hostess themselves, also their son, John Wesley.

Mr. Cookson has just completed a beautiful mahogany table which has been admired for the last week by the neighbors. Although Mr. Cookson is an expert bookkeeper he is quite a cabinet maker. Mr. Cookson says: "It's just a hobby of mine; when I get tired of other work I am busy at my wood work. I find that it is a good thing to keep the mind occupied and it keeps one out of mischief."

At the Fairmount

Fairmount Hotel of La Crescenta did an exceedingly prosperous business last Sunday. Among those registered at the local resort are: D. B. Newell, T. J. Meals, Mrs. Myrtle Schrimp, John J. Mountz and wife, Jeanette H. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Banning, Ruth R. Thomson and M. A. Johnson, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. I. W. Holland, Chicago, and Mabel G. Matoon of Huntington Park.

School Work

School work has been nicely started in the La Crescenta school. Under the direction of Miss Brown, grammar grades, and Miss Haugh, primary department, 55 children have been enrolled. The daily attendance is very good according to the teachers. Little Emily Ferreira, who lives some distance from the school, has been absent the past week on account of her poor health. A little Japanese boy, George Tsuchiyama from Montrose, is enrolled.

The new building which is in course of construction, will be ready for occupancy the first of the year. It contains three classrooms and room for the fourth grade, an auditorium for motion pictures and town meetings, while on the grounds a playground with necessary equipment will be established. The building will not only serve for school purposes, but will become the social center of the town.

Several new lines are being introduced in the work this year at the school, according to Miss Brown. She said: "Beginning with next month the home credit system will be inaugurated. We will give credit to children who maintain rules of health at home, assist around the house with work which they can do, such as cooking, wash dishes and sewing for the girls and care of poultry, rabbits, etc., for the boys."

This same home credit system will be adapted in the primary department under Miss Haugh.

Another feature of the school work this year is the story hour at the library which will be presided over by Miss Nell Miller, daughter of the librarian. The primary room of the school attends this hour every second Tuesday, and the first stories were told Tuesday of this week.

The teachers have been spending lunch hours and recesses in organizing ball teams among the boys. Everything seems to point to a most eventful year for the local school.

New Orleans Guests Depart

Miss F. Jaufroid and mother of New Orleans, who spent a week at the Hotel La Crescenta, left for their home the early part of the week. Miss Jaufroid is a principal of one of the large New Orleans public schools. During the stay at La Crescenta, the Jaufroids were greatly interested in the outcome of the storm which swept their home city.

Water Company Meet

La Crescenta Water Company's stockholders held a meeting in the church Tuesday afternoon. About twenty people were present but not enough to constitute a quorum and transact any business. However, it was the concensus of opinion that the old officers should continue the development work and increase the water supply by either a tunnel or more wells.

Auto to Monrovia

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hanger of Fairmount Hotel, accompanied by Miss Harlin and Miss Manning, motored to Monrovia Wednesday of this week, where friends were visited.

New Walton Wells

Three news wells are being sunk on the Walton Wells land of the Sierra-Verdugo Water Co. The present supply of the wells is approximately 140 miner inches. This amount will be greatly increased with the new wells, however, for reports say that the flow gets better with each day's drilling.

Hotel Guests

Arrivals at the La Crescenta Hotel the past week are: E. D. Severance and T. D. Hutchison of Los Angeles, Mrs. E. J. Fouke of Pasadena. Mr. F. H. Ohrmund, Porter T. Pohlen, Mrs. E. J. Foulke of Pasadena. Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. Baldridge and Miss Mae Anderegg of Onondacka Rancho were Sunday dinner guests at the hotel.

Growth of Oakdale

It is interesting to note the growth of La Crescenta and the new communities surrounding it. The Oakdale plat which was put on the market a little over a year ago, has increased wonderfully. According to W. C. White of the Oakdale store, one year ago he burned nine piles of brush from his lot. At the present time there are fifty houses in this thriving community and Mr. White figures that with another year's growth Oakdale will be a full-fledged city.

SPECIAL STATE ELECTION OCTOBER 26

They also posted lists of polling places and election officers. Those for Burbank city and Burbank precinct are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Waterman returned Monday evening after having spent several delightful weeks at the San Francisco exposition and visiting relatives and old-time friends.

The La Canada Thursday club will hold its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Horne on School street. A very interesting program has been prepared for the year's work, including papers on South America, stories of the operas and the Greek myths. The club is looking forward to an enjoyable and help-ful year.

Edwin Cooper left Monday morning on the S. S. Congress for a week at San Francisco and the exposition. He is planning to return on the S. S. Yale.

There was quite a serious accident Sunday evening about dusk at the corner of Texas street and Michigan avenue when a machine owned and driven by Mr. Moyse, principal of the Glendale High School, collided with a motorcycle. Mr. Moyse was driving north on Texas street, coming from Flintridge, and was just turning the corner onto the avenue as the motorcycle came down the avenue. The motorcycle was ridden by an employee of the Southern California Edison Company and was just then returning from a hurry-up call. He was thrown from the motor, had one leg broken and received a bad cut over one eye. The occupants of the automobile were not injured although the machine itself was badly damaged.

Dr. Roy Lanterman arrived on the scene soon after the accident occurred and after bandaging the leg of the injured man, took him to the Pasadena Hospital in his machine. Anderson and Green towed the damaged machine to their garage for repairs. Two men from the Edison Company, one of them an attorney, were in the valley Monday looking over the ground.

This is not the first accident that has occurred at this corner and it behooves motorists to be more careful. It would be well for the automobile club to put a sign at this corner.

The graders and other implements for the work on School street have arrived and the camp has been established just north of the Allandale Ranch. Work has already been commenced on the upper end of the street.

Miss May C. Young left by boat Tuesday evening for the north. She will visit friends in San Jose for a week and then go on the San Francisco where she will be joined by Mrs. Rowe and they will spend a week visiting the fair.

Dr. Scott will take for the subject of his sermon Sunday morning "The Mystery of God's Hand in the World." Sunday school at 10 o'clock, preaching service at 11 and Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosi and family of Pasadena spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Famularo of Craig avenue.

Mrs. M. E. Zarrs with Mr. and Mrs. George Moore and young son Morton of Michillinda will leave Friday for a ten days' visit to the San Francisco exposition.

They are developing--changing--growing older every day--Those kiddies faces and a photograph as they are today--will be more precious as the years go by.

EAGLE ROCK

Another petition containing names of citizens favoring annexation was presented to the city council Monday evening. The same parties had petitions circulating before, but when presented before the board were found to be void in conforming to the law. Many who signed the petition before did not sign this one.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid met this week Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Miller on North Peyton avenue. It was a very busy meeting as new officers were elected and plans for the new year were discussed.

Our citizens are rejoicing over the fact that city taxes are the lowest they've been for two years.

The Eagle Rock Boy Scouts have sent an invitation to President Wilson asking him to visit our city should he come to California to attend both expositions.

Mrs. W. S. Moe and daughter Olive spent a few days last week in Los Angeles visiting the former's mother, Mrs. La Verna House, and sister, Mrs. F Hammer.

All of the young people of the M. E. church were sadly disappointed when they learned that Mr. Smith would not return to Eagle Rock. During the time he was here Rev. Smith did a most wonderful work in building up the church and the membership increased greatly. It just seemed Mr. Smith belonged to Eagle Rock and his return to this city was almost certain as the church members nanimously petitioned for his return. Mr. Smith was highly respected by all the young people in this valley who knew him as well as the old, and he leaves a large circle of friends in all the local churches who shall miss him, but wish him success in his field at Chatsworth.

The choir members will hold a farewell party on their regular meeting night, this Friday, for Mr. Smith, who has taken up the pastorate at Chatsworth. He was an honorary member of this choir and will be greatly missed.

The O. F. F. club has resumed its regular season of enjoyment and held the opening meeting at Miss Hustis' home on West Mariposa avenue and the next meeting was held at Miss Casey's home on Ellenwood drive last Saturday evening.

A. A. House returned last week from the Hollywood sanitarium. His health has been much benefited.

A question has come before the board of public utilities which appears a hard one to settle. Recently a tenant of the Mount Washington hotel left, leaving an unpaid water bill. A charge of $60 was made against the hotel company by the water company and the water is shut off, leaving the hotel without service. The hotel company has appealed to the board and has cited the ruling of the state railroad commission that the owner of a building cannot be held responsible for a debt incurred by a tenant. The Eagle Rock Water company contends that the owner of the property must pay the bill.

"BIG BUSINESS" MEETING

Men representing the biggest corporations in the United States attended the dinner for delegates to the National Association of Railway Commissioners at San Francisco today. Among the business heads were Samuel Insull, president Commonwealth Edison company; Warren S. Stone, president Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Joseph W. Folk, counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission, former governor of Missouri; William Sproule, president Southern Pacific; Governor Hiram W. Johnson, California, and Lieutenant Governor John M. EMERGENCY AID

Insect Bites

"When not of sufficient magnitude to endanger life the local application to insect bites of ammonia, alcohol or spirits of camphor is usually sufficient to allay the pain. In severe numerous stings the case must be looked upon as one of general systematic poisoning and combatted by the use of stimulants of all kinds and the local application of a mild carbolic acid dressing in the form of a solution or as carbolized vaseline.

Bites of Venomous Reptiles

"The poisonous snakes, scorpion, tarantula, etc., are each to be considered as extremely dangerous to ilfe and treated accordingly. In cases of the scorpion and tarantula open the wound, cauterize it and apply some antiseptic. Stimulate the patient as necessary.

"In the case of a snake bite at once tie a ligature above the wound, not sufficient tight to constrict the arteries, but only the veins and lymphatics, for it is through these that the venom reaches the general circulation. At once freely incise the point of the bite and make incisions about it to allow of a free flow of blood. If the mucous lining of your lips and mouth is intact suck the wound forcibly. Next, thoroughly cauterize the wound with an acid, a heated piece of iron or a red-hot coal. If you have permanganate of potassium at hand fill the wound with it and apply a dressing. The contracting band is now to be loosened for a few moments and then tightened, thus allowing a small portion of poison that may be in the wound into the system and its effect observed. The operation is continued at intervals till the band is completely loosed. These poisons are depressors of the heart and respiration, so stimulants should be given. As whisky is usually to be obtained it is given in repeated doses to keep the heart going without over-stimulation. Whisky itself is not an antidote.

"The bites of dogs and cats should be at once cauterized with carbolic acid neutralized with alcohol and dressed.

Treatment of Burns

In the treatment of burns the first object is to prevent contact with the air and irritation. In ordinary burns most any simple remedy serves the purpose. Olive oil alone or mixed with equal parts of lime water chalk, oil and vinegar in the form of a paste, vaseline or carbolated vaseline applied on gauze or lint with a bandage.

Wounds of the Soft Parts

"Accidental wounds are of various shapes and sizes, from a simple puncture to an extensive laceration and complete loss of tissue, and are accompanied by hemorrhage, varying from a slight oozing to a fatal loss of blood. Every accidental wound should be regarded and treated as an infected wound.

"The hemorrhage may be: First, arterial, recognized by the bright red color of the blood, which is emitted from the wound in intermittent jets; second, venous, by the dark blue color and steady flow, and third, capillary, steady in flow, small in quantity as compared to the others, red in color and from a superficial wound.

"In the treatment of these wounds the first thing to do is to check the hemorrhage, if it is from a large artery or vein, and then proper'y cleanse and dress the injury. Capillary oozing can be attended to later.

"In cleaning the wound all foreign particles such as pieces of clothing, leaves, splinters of wood, etc., must be thoroughly removed and the cavity washed out with some antiseptic solution. If tincture of iodine is obtainable swab the surface with it and paint the surrounding skin, then dress with a solution of the same in water to the color of a dark sherry. If carbolic acid is applied pure neutralize at once with alcohol and this treatment should be employed in all cases of punctured and other wounds made by old nails, pieces of tin, etc. When it is possible to hold the wound under a hydrant of cold running water it is quickly cleaned of all foreign particles by the force of the water's flow.

"Nearly always some antiseptic is to be found in the house, for practically any preparation containing alcohol will serve the purpose, as bay rum, whisky, brandy, toilet water, cologne, spirits of camphor or listerine. Antiseptic tooth washes and pastes can be employed, either in full strength or diluted.

Treatment of Hemorrhage

"Arterial hemorrhage, if from a large vessel of an extremity, is almost quickly controlled by the application of a tourniquet above the point of injury—that is, between the bleeding point and the trunk. If from a small artery, pressure at the wounded point will usually be sufficient. This is accomplished by a small pad over the wound held firmly in place by a bandage.

"The ideal tourniquet consists of a rubber band or tube which, after being placed upon the stretch, is wound quickly three or four times about the limb and held in place by a knot. A roller bandage placed about the limb as tightly as possible with or without a folded pad or pieces of wood or cork beneath it, over the vessel, will serve the same purpose. The old fashioned windless is sure and the pressure easily regulated. This consists of a loop of bandage or cloth of sufficient strength placed about the limb and a stick run through it. By twisting the stick the pressure can be regulated till all pulsation in the part beyond has disappeared. By leaving this strip of wood paralleled with the length of the limb, another piece of cloth will hold it in place and thus the pressure be permanent.

"On account of the location of the principal arteries in the leg and forearm between the bones, it is best in hemorrhage in these situations, to place the tourniquet above the knee in the former and the elbow in the latter instance. The same is true concerning the hand and foot, if the bleeding cannot be checked by direct pressure.

"Venous hemorrhage is controlled by pressure at the point by a pad and bandage or tightly packing the wound. Employ a tourniquet if a large vein has been severed.

"Capillary hemorrhage is stopped by pressure and with cloths wrung out of very hot water. If slight, exposure of the wound to the air will clot the blood and stop the flow.

"The bleeding from wounds about the trunk, neck, face and head are controlled by direct presure or tightly packing the wound.

"In all cases of severe hemorrhage from an extremity that part should be elevated and the individual quiet. When bleeding has been profuse lower the head, give stimulants and plenty of water.

"If bleeding from the nose the cavity can be sprayed with a strong solution of common salt in water or vinegar in water or the same stuffed up the nostril. If this does not suffice pack the cavity with a narrow strip of linen or gauze, remembering that the opening runs directly backward and not upwards, as is generally supposed. Apply ice to the bridge of the nose and pressure from side to side with the thumb and finger.

"In vomiting of blood give small pellets of ice by mouth and place an icebag over the pit of the stomach. Recumbent position and administer vinegar in water in the proportion of one to four.

"In bleeding from the lungs, when bright red, frothy blood is coughed up, have the patient lie down with cold applications to the chest and give table salt in teaspoonful doses—dry—till nausea, but do not produce vomiting.

Fractures

"In case of an accident resulting in a broken bone it is far better, if the break is of the thigh or leg, not to attempt to move the patient until some temporary appliance has been secured to prevent the broken ends working upon each other or even penetrating the skin.

"In case of a fracture of the leg, that is, below the knee, the clothing does not have to be removed, but splints of proper length and width improvised from anything at hand should be apllied at either side and held in place by strips of cloth or bandage. Unless a surgeon be present no attempt should be made to set the bones, but only to immobilize the limb. Then elevate the limb. The uninjured limb is the guide for the position in which to place the injured one.

"In fracture of the thigh a piece of board 6 inches wide and long enough to extend from the armpit to below the foot should be placed alongside the patient and securely strapped to him by bands about the chest, hip, thigh, leg and foot.

"In the forearm two splints should be used, one on the palmar surface and one opposite and the limb placed in a swing, with the thumb up.

"In a break between the elbow and shoulder place on two splints and put the forearm in a sling.

"In the case of broken fingers place all fingers and hand on a splint on the side of the palm and bandage.

"Remember that swelling rapidly occurs after a break and unless the services of a surgeon are soon obtained the bandages will soon have to be loosened.

"The pain of a broken collar bone can be relieved by tying a handkerchief loosely about each shoulder, with a third one passed through these loops across the back and drawn tight, thus pulling the shoulders well back.

Shock

"In practically all injuries of any magnitude the patient sooner or later suffers from what is known as shock, which is a partial or complete cessation of all bodily functions. The skin becomes pale and cold and covered with a clammy sweat, the pupils dilated, the eyeballs sunken, the extremities blue, the features pinched, the heart weak and pulse feeble or absent, the respiration shallow and the patient takes little or no interest in what is going on about him. He suffers no pain and his mental faculties are not impaired.

"In the treatment of this condition the symptoms alone are the guide. Place the patient in bed with the head low, apply heat to the body and extremities and the administration of stimulants, as brandy, whisky, strychnine, ammonia, etc., till reaction sets in.

"In all cases, and especially here, remember that the skin is easily burned, so never place a hot water bag or bottle directly next to the surface.

"In any and every case requiring first aid treatment remember that very trivial injuries may be the commencement of very serious conditions and the services of a physician or surgeon should be soon obtained."
